March 2008

Injury Prevention Information Centre
Social and Community Health, School of Population Health
University of Auckland

IPLit Update is a monthly bulletin to keep you up to date with the latest injury prevention research and best practice from New Zealand and around the world.

The IPLit database of all reports, articles and other resources indexed since the early 1990s and a list of all IPRC publications can now be accessed from the IPIC homepage at:

http://iplit.fmhs.auckland.ac.nz/search_menu.htm . This is a new page which links to the IPLit and INZED search pages, which all have a new look with Simple and Advanced search functions.

A guide to the IPLit database is at:

http://www.fmhs.auckland.ac.nz/soph/departments/ipic/docs/rb1_jun_07_iplit.pdf

You are welcome to visit the Injury Prevention Information Centre and browse the collection.

The Injury Prevention Information Centre provides an enquiry service.

A system of chronic pain: disability consequential to accidental injury

[Article]

New Zealand Medical Journal, 14 March 2008, 121(1270): 12-20

To gain an understanding of chronic pain, as a result of accidental injury, a group of people was tested with measures of pain and the associated processes of depression, state and trait anxiety, sleep and stress over a two year period. Fear emerged as a correlate of pain.

Disqualified drivers in Victoria: a literature review and focus group study [Report] Melbourne: Monash University Accident Research Centre, March 2008, xvi, 125pp.. 0-7326-2344-8 Report no.274

This report outlines a two phase project into disqualified drivers in Victoria, Australia. The first phase of the project comprised a review of the literature related to licence disqualification and explored the feasibility of conducting an in-depth study of disqualified drivers in Victoria . The second phase of the project, which resulted from the feasibility study, involved conducting an in-depth investigation into the behaviours and attitudes of disqualified drivers, including contributing family and social influences. Forty disqualified drivers participated in focus groups. It was found that 60% of the participants continued to drive while disqualified.

Adolescent suicide: risk factors and prevention strategies

[Article]

Current Problems in Pediatric and Adolescent Health Care, April 2008, 38(4): 110-125

This article provides a comprehensive overview of research on adolescent suicide. Although the epidemiological data focuses on the US, there is a useful review of prevention strategies highlighting the advantages and disadvantages of each.
